CenterPoint Properties' Rick Mathews Appointed to NAIOP's General Counsel National Forum

Washington, D.C. (December 18, 2019) – NAIOP, the Commercial Real Estate Development Association, has appointed Rick Mathews, senior vice president, general counsel, CenterPoint Properties in Oak Brook, Illinois, to its General Counsel National Forum. The General Counsel National Forum is comprised of members from markets across the country who have a leading role in providing counsel to and within commercial real estate firms. The Forum focuses on the issues that corporate counsel face within commercial real estate companies and practices and on such transactions as acquisitions, dispositions, leases, finance transactions, joint ventures and mergers, among others.

In his role with CenterPoint Properties, Rick provides the company's executive management with legal counsel to minimize corporate risk. His primary responsibilities include general corporate oversight, developing and enforcing CenterPoint's compliance policies, and litigation management. He also serves as the head of Risk Management, and provides support for the company's transactional departments. Prior to joining CenterPoint, Rick served as vice president, senior counsel, for ST Residential. He received a bachelor's degree in political science from the University of Michigan and a J.D. from Emory University.

NAIOP's select National Forums program brings together leading industry professionals for exclusive networking and candid, closed-door meetings to exchange experience and ideas around topics of interest. Applicants are evaluated by a selection committee for appointment to the Forums and must be NAIOP members in good standing, among other criteria.
